

DISTRIBUTION OF PUBLIC INFORMATION

One of the strongest links between the school and the public is the student. To prevent misinformation the school administration must insure that information regarding school activities, programs, and organizations is properly distributed to parents.

Students may be engaged as couriers of information about the school system or the school, or information approved by the Principal or Superintendent. Such information may include publications, newsletters, notices, or other printed materials under the name of the Division, the school, or the recognized school council or booster organizations.

The Superintendent or Principal may deny the use of students in the distribution of any information at their discretion.

Accomplish Anything

Adopted 12/539/05	Reviewed	Revised	Page 1 of 1
----------------------	----------	---------	----------------